Data and Opt-ins

Our organization collects and collates both first-party and third-party opt-in data through a range of outbound efforts and additional channels.

Our Outbound team gathers first-party opt-in data by directly reaching out to potential customers who have shown interest in our products or services. During these interactions, we secure their consent to receive marketing communications. Typical first-party opt-in data collected through telemarketing includes names, phone numbers, email addresses, and other relevant contact details.

We also enhance our marketing efforts by incorporating third-party opt-in data, which comes from trusted data providers or partners who have collected consent from their own users.

Additionally, we gather opt-in data from other sources such as our website, social media platforms, and offline events, ensuring a comprehensive and targeted approach to customer engagement.

Hyper Personalisation Illustration

We not only hyper-personalize the email templates but also the landing page. If there are 2,000 emails being sent, our AI-powered tool creates a unique email template for each prospect along with 2,000 personalised landing content, making the prospect feel seen and understood by providing them with personalized content that captures their attention and engages them in a more meaningful way.

Content vs Audience Mapping

The first step involves identifying the most relevant audience by aligning the content topic with the target specifications. This helps segment lists based on attributes such as job titles, skills, expertise, past behavior, and other key data points.

AI-Prompts

Using AI prompts to personalize messaging involves highlighting the value proposition and relevance of the content by incorporating details such as topics, company names, first names, job titles, current experience, and skills.

Templates

Creating hyper-personalized email templates involves mapping prospects' attributes—such as job titles, skills, expertise, and experience—to the asset's value proposition. This approach results in unique emails that resonate with recipients and effectively promote the content.

Personalising Landing Page

Creating personalized landing page messaging in the first paragraph ensures the prospect is addressed directly, making the entire engagement journey resonate with their interests and stay relevant throughout.
